CREW DC PRESENTS “THE NEXT FRONTIER IN GREEN BUILDING: WELL AND FITWEL” ON MAY 10, 2017

Washington, D.C. – April 27, 2017 – Commercial Real Estate Women (CREW) of Washington, DC invites members, the general public and media to attend “The Next Frontier in Green Building: WELL and Fitwel”, a luncheon program on Wednesday May 10, 2017. Health and wellness is a topic that has, in recent years, permeated almost every facet of American society. Two new green ratings systems are focused on addressing this trend and raising the bar on sustainable building design and operations. Just like LEED transformed the building industry, rating systems like WELL and Fitwel are poised to redefine not only the green building industry but also their occupants’ experience. Join CREW DC as they explore this next frontier in green building and learn the benefits and challenges involved when implementing programs such as WELL and Fitwel.

Speakers:

Mandi Wedin, Washington REIT (Moderator)

Wendy Feldman Block, Savills Studley

Steve Kooy, SCS Global Services

Denise Funkhouser, GSA

This lunch program is open to members and non-members and will be held on Wednesday, May 10, 2017 from 11:30 am to 1:30 pm at Hamilton Live at 600 14th Street, NW, Washington, DC. General registration is available through the CREW DC website at www.crewdc.org.

Reporters are invited to attend this luncheon meeting free of charge, space permitting, but must contact Karen Widmayer at 301-661-1448 or e-mail karenwidmayerpr@gmail.com to register prior to the event.
